New-Jersey act.

As to the value of temperance instruction in the schools, hardly time enough has elapsed to speak with certainty. On a priori ground, it may fairly be expected that the dissemination of correct information as to the nature and effects of alcoholic stimulation and narcotics among the children in our schools will be the means of preventing many from acquiring the alcoholic and narcotic habit in later years; hence the friends of scientific temperance teaching in the schools are justified in asking for a fair trial before any wholesale denunciation of the experiments.

There is one element of the problem that seems to have been lost sight of in this discussion, which is that the children, as a rule, are delighted with the two study. This is the more remarkable since the subject is a new one, and teachers have had little experience in presenting it scientifically and intelligently. Probably the fact that the new study has seen taken up with fairly good textbooks in the ands of teachers and children is the chief reason for its being attractive to pupils. I am not altosether in sympathy with those who believe it a water policy for the State to prescribe not only the branches to be pursued in the schools, but the time, manner, etc., in which the same shall be taught. The latter could be left more wisely to the local authorities, it seems to me. I do not believe, however, hat the time has yet arrived when any one is justified in declaring that the experiment of temperance astruction in the public schools is a failure.

TO WORSHIP IN NEW QUARTERS.

THE FIRST METHODIST SOCIETY OF AR-LINGTON WILL BUILD A FINE CHURCH. After a quarter of a century of religious activity a several humble quarters the First Methodist Spiscopal Society of Arlington, N. It was a love letter, and the writer spoke of an injury to his foot, which had been severely bruised and which he was nursing. The feet of the murderer and suicide were examined by Coroner Bowers, but they showed no sign of injury. The letter was dated No. 99 Mercer-st., East Orange, and ended with the following lines:

O. gentle love with eyes so bright, With loving arms around me tight; In time of hur or yet in pains, My own true heart this love remains.

Later it was learned that the murdered girl was from Freehold, N. J., and that she had been receiving attentions from a man living there. The murderer and suicide was identified as Joseph Graham a carpenter, from Freehold, but who has been in Trenton since Miss Anderson came to the city Jealousy was undoubtedly the cause of the double

TOURNAMENT.

WOMEN-MARRIAGE OF MISS HALL AND

TAINMENT-GOSSIP OF SOCIETY.

All the Oranges are looking forward with pleasant anticipations to the great Middle States Lawn Church, on Wednesday evening. Misses Martha Tennis Tournament, with which the tennis season on the grounds of the Orange Lawn Tennis Club entries. Larned will defend the cup, which he Julia S. Scribner; corresponding secretary, won twice. Stavens will also contest for it, and he also has two victories to his credit. If either of Lowry. Mrs. D. W. Pond was the unanima these cracks should win the trophy then the club would have to put up another trophy for the next year's competition. But there are uncertainties in this struggle. Howland was defeated last year by Larned only after a long and bitter struggle, and he will surely come in this year. Then, too, there are Wrenn and Hobart, who will try for the honors, and so it is not so sure that Larned will have things all his own way. In the ladies' singles Miss Atki and Miss Hellwig, and probably Mrs. Toulmin, of Philadelphia, will contest.

One of the most delightful entertainments of the week was the reading that was given by Gustave Kobbe from his own works at the residence of Henry A. Page in Montrose on Thursday afternoon.
